

The District Court of the Virgin Islands Proudly Honors its Employees during Public Service Recognition Week

Public Service Recognition Week (May 5-11, 2019) is observed to recognize the men and women who serve our nation as federal, state, and local government employees. In honor of Public Service Recognition Week, the Court is privileged to recognize the accomplishments, contributions, and achievements of all the employees of the District Court of the Virgin Islands. Our hard working, dedicated and professional employees make every effort to provide vital services to our community.

Each day our dedicated employees renew their commitment to serve the members of our local and national communities. Their commitment is evident in the extended hours they willingly work, their solution-based service, creative collaboration with other agencies and community members, and devoted efforts to improve the lives of those they serve.

The Court resoundingly recognizes the service-oriented contributions our employees make each day in the administration of justice as well as their contributions to the District Conference, naturalization ceremonies, Kids and the Court events, school tours, student interns, jurors and clients.

They are honored for their passion, character and commitment!
